

EGGS – 7-Step MDP Guide (Minimum Deliverable Product)

The leanest version of the universe that still feels magical and intentional.

The Core Identity, 🧬

Define what EGGS is in one line:

A creative universe + community lab where players shape games, lore, art, and tournaments.

This includes:

- The EGGS/Paralleon iconography
- The tone (satirical, educational, imaginative, communal)
- “Players are co-authors.”

The Tri-Pillar Structure,

We set up the three pillars so the whole brand has gravity:

A. Eggshhead University

Lore, classes, worldbuilding, faction intros, metaphysics, archives.

B. Para

Actual playable games. Prototypes, playtests, modes, leaderboards.

C. Mythic Strategies

IRL MTG store ecosystem that feeds the funnel (art slips, QR codes, Discord invites).

The “pillars” are public facing, but not fully built out yet. Just the shell.

The Onboarding Experience, 🙌

A newcomer should be able to land in the Discord and immediately understand:

- What the universe is
- Where to go first
- One fun action they can take in the first 30 seconds
- How to earn XP (even if the system is manual at first)

This requires:

- 1 welcome channel
- 1 “start here”
- 1 classroom
- 1 game demo channel
- 1 art/lore teaser channel

First Engagement Loop (XP → Identity → Rewards),

The very first loop must be tiny but delicious:

- Users post art, essays, memes, or faction takes
- You reward them manually
- They build a profile (even just choosing a faction)
- They feel “seen” and connected

This loop is the heart of the MDP — the thing that proves people care.

The First Tournament / Event, 🏆

A single, small tournament that:

- Uses your branding/style
- Feels “part of the universe”

- Has a leaderboard you can manually track
- Gives symbolic rewards

This doesn't require:

- Full rulesets
- Final design
- Complex automation

Just a scrappy, vibey event with clear vibes.

The Content Seed Vault,

You don't need ALL lore. Just a seed vault:

- 4 factions with 1-page intros
- 3 vanguards
- 2 historical arcs
- 1 class for each pillar
- 10–15 pieces of art

Enough to tease the world and orient creators, not define everything.

The Brand Cycle (Weekly Cadence),

One single repeatable weekly action:

- A class drop
- A piece of art
- A mini-tournament
- A behind-the-scenes teaser
- A lore snippet

This is what makes the project feel alive.

Once this cycle exists, you've achieved an MDP.

Key takeaways

"PLAYERS ARE CANNON"

we can play into this heavy. Allowing everyone's own personal lives or personas to matter as much as they want.,

"ART SHOULD BE CURATED"

ai slop is fine , encouraged even but let's just keep the foot on the hose here a bit, build a clean reservoir. This isn't cleansing but selecting.,

DOING THE ABOVE

Ensures value returned to the community. It doesn't sound like it but selecting art makes it worth more. It's literally free rebates for the community every time we squeeze the art/creatives nozzle,

1 A

Para is a living card-game universe built with its community — playful, experimental, and always evolving. Blending lcg and tcg to revolutionize gaming at the kitchen table

1 B

Para is an experimental trading card game built openly with its community. Instead of long production cycles or secret development, Para grows through live playtesting, collaborative ideas, and creative exploration. Players help shape mechanics, factions, art style, and even lore — making Para a TCG that evolves with its players instead of at them. Everything is lightweight, playful, and built with the goal of making card games more accessible, more experimental, and more fun.

Can't beat the queen? Join her.

1 C

You get to be part of building something from the ground up. Para gives you a seat at the table, a voice in the universe, and the tools to shape a real card game. It's creative, communal, and fires the imagination.

What's more empowering the pen or the sword?

1 D

Accessibility,

Everyone should feel welcome to contribute — even casually, even messily.

Experimentation,

New ideas are embraced, prototyped fast, and iterated openly.

Community Co-Creation,

Players actively shape the universe, not just consume it.

Built on it.

Built from it.

1 E

Para is a universe where ideas evolve quickly, rules are polite suggestions, and everyone feels invited to poke the boundaries of what a TCG can be.

No, really what's stronger the pen or the sword?

1 F and probably a big one

MDP identity must define WHO the earliest "correct" people are.

Para is built for:

- People who like experimenting
- People who like card games but don't need a AAA final product
- Creatives who like art, mechanics, worldbuilding
- People who enjoy community-first development
- Players who want to be heard

Para is NOT built for:

- Hyper-competitive grinders who need a polished meta
- People expecting a professional AAA TCG from day 1
- People who dislike playful experimentation

This helps you avoid building for everyone and losing clarity.

Bare minimum to express the identity:

- A Discord
- A place for playtesting

- A place to share card concepts
- A small vault of starter lore + factions
- A weekly “heartbeat” post
- A vibe

That’s it.

NO full rulebook, NO complete lore Bible, NO final art set.

This step protects you from scope creep.

1H — The Founders North Star:

Para succeeds when it is a fun place to experiment. The goal is not perfection — the goal is momentum, creativity, and community energy. Everything else evolves naturally.

Reading this sentence weekly keeps you aligned.

1I — The MDP Deliverables for Step 1

By the end of Step 1, you should have:

- ✓ A one-sentence definition
- ✓ A one-paragraph definition
- ✓ The emotional promise
- ✓ Three brand values
- ✓ The tone guide
- ✓ Audience definition
- ✓ Scope limits
- ✓ North Star message

Once these are locked in?

You have an identity.

Everything else is execution.

Understand that everything at the para table is held in containers of three.

For community starters this means:

- PARA TCG — where the games are shaped
- PARALLEON — where the world and factions live
- EGGS — where the community creates, tests, and jokes around

A pinned message in #introduce-your-lore:

Say hi in any style you like — regular introduction or in-character.

We’ll give you a little “Starter Spark” when you do.

You then the member is provided a role and a place in the xp boards

3E — The PARA Tone in Onboarding

This is subtle but essential. Your onboarding must not feel like a corporation. It must have:

- warmth
- humor
- light surrealism
- openness
- curiosity

SNL RANG

3G — The “Heartbeat” (1 weekly update)

This is the secret weapon.

If your onboarding gets people inside,
the heartbeat keeps the world alive.

You only need ONE weekly post, such as:

- “New Playtest Cards”
- “Lore Drop of the Week”
- “Community Highlight”
- “Balance Thoughts”
- “Art Spotlight”

Keep it small, repeatable, human.

This tells new players:

“This universe is evolving. I want to stay and watch.”

SNL RANG

The First Engagement Loop is the minimum-viable cycle of interaction that gives members:

- a reason to speak
- a reason to return
- a feeling of belonging
- a sense of impact
- and a taste of the magic Para offers

This loop must be:

- simple
- repeatable
- instantly rewarding
- low cognition
- on-brand
- ZERO pressure

We’re not building a loyalty program or a battle pass.

We’re building a tiny ritual that creates retention.

STEP 4 — THE FIRST ENGAGEMENT LOOP

At the simplest level, an engagement loop has 4 beats:

User does something

They get recognition,

They get identity,

They get a reason to do it again,

,We design this loop to be so lightweight that even the most passive, shy, busy, or overwhelmed member can participate.

4B — THE REWARD (Recognition THAT MATTERS)

For the MDP, the reward must be symbolic, not mechanical.

No points system.

No automated leveling.

No spreadsheets.

Just human, warm, instantly-visible recognition.

MDP Reward: “Sparks” (Manual reacts/roles)

You or mods react with a simple Spark emoji when someone participates.

Optionally:

Give them the Starter Spark role after their introduction.

WHY THIS WORKS:

- It’s fast
- It’s human
- It’s gratifying
- People LOVE seeing the icon under their name

Later you can expand into XP — but the MDP version must stay light.

Think ranks but different

The tournament.

has to be simple , small and special,

Much emergence

6A

World seed

1 mother doc about Paralleon

6B

Four faction seeds + Aliens + morphling pair seeds

6 small description seeds

6C

Strategists seed - they need types too

Librarian, observer , courier

6D

Art seed

Dozen or so curated images

6E

Card seed

Dozen or so curated cards from any game

7B — THE 3 TYPES OF WEEKLY DROPS (Choose one each week)

TYPE A — TCG Drop (PARA TCG Pillar)

Examples:

- 2 new prototype cards
- a balance nudge (“we’re nerfing Liquidity Goblin”)
- a mechanic preview (“Shift is behaving weirdly this week”)
- a playtest recap
- tournament highlight

These drops should be short, visual, readable.

MDP Format:

- 1–3 cards OR
- a 3–5 sentence post OR
- a single graphic

Low effort. High energy.

Eternal Galaxy

TYPE B — Lore Drop (PARALLEON Pillar)

Examples:

- 1 faction fact
- 1 character line
- 1 piece of art
- 1 micro-story (3–5 sentences)
- a new map doodle
- a strange in-universe “report”

The point is to give the world “texture,” not plot.

MDP Format:

A single paragraph of lore or one image with a caption.

That’s it.

TYPE C — Community Drop (EGGS Pillar)

Examples:

- highlight someone’s card idea
- highlight someone’s match
- spotlight an artist
- praise a funny post
- show a meme someone made
- share a screenshot from an event
- “Ask the community” question

This keeps members invested, proud, and seen.

MDP Format:

One screenshot + one sentence.

7C — THE SCHEDULE (The Para Pulse)

Your weekly cycle should be:

- Same day every week
- Same time window
- Predictable but not repetitive
- Tiny in effort

Best choices:

- Friday afternoon (sets weekend vibe)
- Sunday evening (sets weekly vibe)
- Monday evening (best for retention)

Pick ONE and stick with it.

You don’t need a calendar, roles, or reminders.

Just drop your weekly pulse like a heartbeat.

7D — THE TEMPLATE FOR WEEKLY POSTS (MDP-Optimized)

Here are 3 templates — one for each type — that you can literally copy/paste.

TCG Drop Template

“This week in Para TCG:

[1–2 sentences about the update]

[Image of 1–3 prototype cards]

Feedback welcome in #playtesting-pit.”

Click to learn more

Lore Drop Template

“A small echo from Paralleon:

[3–5 sentence lore micro-seed]

More curiosities in #story-room.”

Click to learn more

Community Drop Template

“Spotlight of the Week:

[player name] made this cool [card/art/play/moment].

Your creativity fuels Para.”

These take 5–10 minutes each week.

That’s the entire weekly workload.
